

QUESTION ABOUT GX FONT

Great magazine. One of my favourites to read! I enjoy reading Nick Shinn, Bob Connolly and, well, I just can't name them all!

My favourite articles this edition were Ron Giddings' PhotoRetouch Pro and Bob Connolly's mp4 article. The OpenType article is very interesting, too. You seem to choose subject matter that is always relevant to today's top issues for creative professionals. Keep up the good work!

By the way, what is the serif font you use for the body copy? I am interested in typography and it looks like it is based on Cartier but I am not sure exactly what it is.

MICHAEL RYZNAR
RYZNAR DESIGN

[Nick Shinn elaborates: Electra, the standard body copy font used in Graphic Exchange, was designed for Linotype in 1935 by the person who invented the term "graphic designer", Boston illustrator, designer, lettering artist and puppeteer William Addison Dwiggins. Against the contemporary historicism of the types favored by the quality presses and the harsh modernism of those used in the mass media, W.A.D. designed something to please everybody, streamlining and "electrifying" the traditional forms—note in particular "the flat way the curves get away from the straight stems" as he put it.]

ANTENNAE ARE UP

There's something about GRAPHIC EXCHANGE that just doesn't quite add up. Half the ads seem to be rewarded with 'quid pro quo' editorial copy—except for Adobe which, in the June 2002 issue, seems to have dispensed with display ads altogether and simply advertises through your editorial copy. Hmmm. I'd love to audit your books. My 'editorial integrity' antennae are on red alert. Your obvious bias against Quark was the tip off.

When GRAPHIC EXCHANGE first came out, I thought it might be a source of objective information about the rapid pace of development in graphic arts. What was I thinking? You were cagey for awhile but it's now clear you're just like the legions of other 'advertorial' publications polluting the cultural landscape.

MISSING FROM ALBERTA

I was disappointed to note that The Northern Alberta Institute of Technology was not included in the Directory of Canadian Graphic Schools (GX August, 2002).

SHAKE CORRECTION

I just want to start off by saying that your magazine is great. It's informative and a great way for the staff to keep in touch with the latest trends and technologies.

I wanted to point out an error on page 29 of your latest issue [GX July/August]. In your Shake article you mention it is priced at $200. I got excited for about three seconds and then realized it was impossible. It is in fact priced at US$4950! That is actually a good price considering what this killer app is used for. Once again keep up the great articles.

[Editor's reply: Don't you hate when that happens? Yes, we spotted this error—alas, as it was being printed on press.]

SURVEY SNIPPETS

[Editor's note: In August, we sent out our annual reader survey. Here are a few of your comments.]

With the field being as wide and diverse as it is, you're doing a great job of hitting marks. Some issues are more relevant than others, but it's always a must read.

Very timely, current info. I also like the tone of your publication...doesn't take itself too seriously. Thanks.

Most professional magazines have followed the trend toward allotting ever greater space to website design, digital video and games animation. Gladly, you have resisted this trend in large part. I am not interested in "popular" issues—I can find that type of info anywhere. I need assistance, insights, hints that will allow me to grow as an illustrator and print media designer, maximizing my time and my abilities, Photoshop use, page layout, innovative ideas, new software/hardware. I love your magazine. Keep it up.

Some interesting info and tips in GRAPHIC EXCHANGE that I don't get from other Mac-based publications (i.e. MAC-WORLD). Also good new product updates. Keep up the good work. Your covers are suitably "out there"...

GRAPHIC EXCHANGE is my link to lost loops. I started too early, floundered in isolation, tried too many answers, achieved clutter, mastered nothing. An occasional feasting on GRAPHIC EXCHANGE awakens my appetite...to shake off the techno marvel of the fleeting moment, quickly...Thanks (often and again).

For a magazine with "graphic" in its name, and being sent to designers, this is possibly the ugliest magazine I have ever seen. The general design and typography is appalling.
